former session. Mr. Jupp's exposition of Mr. Poer's fallacles was particularly happy, convincing all who heard him. The bill'was put ower for fainre discussion. It will not command more than three affirmative votes. While on this matter, let the Tauruwa urge its Republican friends in either House not to imitate the example of many members of the other party, in treating that Company as if it was constant.

in treating that Company as if it was constantly engaged in an endeavor to steal something. It is a powerful corporation, and, like all other corporations, needs watching; but when it asks for what it may ask, with perfect propriety, and what the Legislature may safely grant, it is folly to clog its bills with conditions with which it caunot comply, and which serve no other purpose than to impel it into devious ways to obtain legislative fayor. It is a perfectly fair and businessilike bill; and the Legislature should pass it unanimously; but Mr. Douomenre, of Union, who ought to know better, tacks on a proviso, the effect of which is to compet the Company to submit to taxation of its lands! This amendment is streamously advocated by many of the Southern men, and is thought to be statesmanifike, nay more, in their estimation—cuming. It is only an usurer's trick.

According to one of the religious rites of the ancient Hebrews, the high priest was directed to lay his hand upon the head of a live gost that was brought for the purpose, and to "confoss over him all the iniquities of the children of Iarsel, and all their transgressions in all their sins, putting them upon the head of the gost," which was then sent away "by the hand of a

De-lighted at the prospect of raising a new issue, and diverting public attention from the corrup-tion in their own body to the obstinate reti-sence of an observe necessary writer the blooms. and diverting public attention from the corruption in their own body to the obstinate resiscence of an obscure newspaper writer, the House y seiserday made Mr. Simentont the scape goat of all their sins, and sent him to jail, which was deemed as much like a wilderness as the spirit of the Jewish laws under which they were apparently acting required. The resolution ordering Simonton's arrest had but sixteen opponents; and another, that he be kept in close confinement for the remainder of the session, unless he sooner parged himself of his contempt, was passed by a vote of 120 to 71. They worded with a will, as if every baffor cast against their poor victim relieved them from some specific and substative ain, and by scading him to jail they were piously removing evil far from them.

It will always strike the distant and unembered the press, a man whose professional duty it is to expose the roguery of Congressmen when it somes to his notice, should have been selected, before all other men, as the scapegoat on this occasion, instead of one of those notorious lobby operators whose schemes have absorbed so much of the attention of our Federal Legislature of late years; the Collinses, the Laws, the Collis, for example, whose facilities for acquiring information about legislative corruption are notoriously superior to any enjoyed by a mere letter-writer for newspapers. But, then, it is equally difficult to divine the reason why Moses selected a goat instead of a sheep, or a horse, or a jackans, to bear away the inquities of his people. A goat was doubtless found to England .....

Most of the emigrants for the last season were farmers, mechanics and historers. It is supposed that about one-half of the sum total, say about 14,000, settled in Canada—ai least there that intention. The writer is certain that lat in the fall between 300 and 400 Scotch imm grants arrived in Montagal from Argyleshin and the Western likes, who, to a man expresses their intention of settling down in Upper Car ada, some among their friends in the Huron an Brince Districts, and others where they coul find employment in the towns and villages for the winter. I was informed that most of the number were that class of small farmers an essants ("country's orde" which the land SEA GRANDEURA.—There is a peculiar charm about the sea; it is always the same, yet acver monotonom. Mr. Gosse has well observed, that you soon get tired of looking at the loveliest field, but never of the rolling waves. The secret, perhaps, is that the field does not seen alive; the sea is life-abounding. Profoundly mysterious as the field is, with its countless forms of life, the aspect does not irresistibly and at once coerce the mind to think of subjects so mysterious and so awful as the aspect of the sea does—it carries with it so ineradicable associations of terror and swe, such as are borne in every nurmar of old ocean, and thus is neither so terrible nor so suggestive. As we look from the cliffs, every wave has its history; every swell keeps up suspense; will it break now, or will it melt into that larger wave? And then the log whigh floats so similessly on its back, and new is carried under again, like a drowning wretch—it is the fragment of some ship which has struck miles and miles away, far from help and all pity, anseen except of heaven, and no messenger of its agony to earth except this log, which floats so buoyantly on the tide.

CREATION OF THE HUMAN RACE.—Dr. Hitch Charmos of the Human Rack.—Dr. Hitchcock, the eminent geologist, said, in a recent discourse at Albany, that geological science places man among the most recent of created things. We find the surface of the earth couposed, to the depth of some eight or ten miles, of rocks. These rocks are fall of the remains of sutmals and plants. Thirty thousand species of them, which differ from any living spegies, have been disinterred, yet no human read. With no command from contraint, they obtained from the condition they are sent of a redocen. In this condition they are sent of an extended from the conditions are not already gluited, the people of the conditions are not already gluited, the people of the conditions are not already gluited, the people of the conditions are not already gluited, the people of the conditions are not already gluited, the people of the conditions are not already gluited, and the conditions are not already gluited, and the conditions are not already gluited, and the conditions are not already gluited, and already gluited, are not already gluited, and alrea

Of course, no person who is not prendy to say in his heart that there is no God, can doubt the result, but this result, like every great good, can be accomplished only by suff-directed effort. I know something of the labor and trial which such service imposes; I also know something of the satisfaction which it affords,—giving to all who truly eapourse it a sterner joy than anything in office or honor. In the wary prostration of months, from which I have so happily risen, my sharpest pang came out of my sufforced separation from the cause which was so dear to me; and now my chief joy is in the assurance that to this service I may dedicate the vigorous health which, through medical care and the kindly ministrations of nature, I am permitted to expect.

The Law to Compel Testimony. Srmowrow is in a had fix. His counsel, KEDT JOHNSON, told him that he was bound to testify, and if he refuses to do so, he must suf-fer the penuity. Statogrow writes to the N. Y. Times as follows:

Washington, Friday, Jun. 22
Under the advice of my counsel, Hon. Reverly Johnson. I did not sue out a writ of habes corpus to-day because a decision goon the power of the House to hold me under the present cally, in view of the new law so hastily push ly settled; but it is clear that the House having made a case, Congress has passed a hav to apply expressly to it, making every possible effort to deprive me of any and every right which a witness has in every Court.

Some urge that in view of this new legislation, I am relieved from the obligation of son fidence undertaken heretofore. My own impression is different thus far, and unless I become autisfied that it is my moral dayt by yield obe dience, I will choose to endure the penalty.

WATERA THIS NEW AND SPLENDID STOCK OF Saint-Generous, the patroness of Parls. The relies of the saint are said to be kept in that church since the destruction of that which had been dedicated to bur; and on the sli of James 17. the sumiversary of her death, a solenn saves or tilte days' devotions, prayers, masses, and other acts of pietry, and which attracts from itsoefebrity crowds or people, is regularly combined there. After wappers and a sermes, which was preached by the Abbe Lacarriers, the procession of the lady patronesses of Sainte-Generieve took place. The Arcabishop presided, as he had at the religions cersmonies during the day. As he was passing the outer door, to enter the principal nave, a young rann apparently about 30 years of age, advanced and stabled the prelate, in the direction of the heart. The victim retracted two steps backhis creater feel from his hand—and, exclaiming "Ah malawaran is mank to the earth. He was carried to the sucristy and, having received absolution from the Abbe Surat, who had caught him in his arms as he fell, expired in less than five minutes. The body was borse to the Arabisopoiscopal Palace, in the Rue Gronelle, St. Germain, at 8 o'clock.

The assassin's name is Verges. He was a priest of the diocess of Meaux, and had been several times suspended from the exercise of his functions. Moral enthusiaem! This is the want of the parish, too, as well as of the preacher. Jive parishes help to make live preachers, or, at least, do not kill those who are already alive, as dead ones do. All that many parishes need is not a new church, for a new pistor, nor the addition of new members, nor rich and infidential persons, to make then flourish like the cedars of Letanon, but more steam in the boiler.
Let there he a haptism of the Holy Spirit. Let the tongues of the again appear over each disciple. For never, never was there such want of a true, carnest, affectionnel religion as now, in this new world, in this nineteenth century, in this perilous experiment of liberty, in this breaking up and passing away of old creeds and usages.

Never was there a time when the high key and intense strain of the world required a more wide-awais and enthusiastic administration of the commanding interest of life. Not a noisy but a deep central life, give, as of the steady beat of the heart, should move our words, and make our every motion and deed speak like the living and beautiful features of the human face divine. For what are all things in this world that men inost scalausty taken for, compared with the spiritual interests of society, the victory of truth, the dreation of a noble manhood, the beauty of holiness, the warm grasp of a tender and powerful humanity, and a lowly awe before the Infinite God?
